Churchs & Chapels

By car, by bike, on foot, discover the churches and chapels of the Plagne Valley. To know them is to immerse oneself in the daily and spiritual life of our mountain communities. A trip suspended out of time that will make you appreciate the baroque art but also beautiful landscapes in the hearts of our high-perched villages.

St Sigismond Church

Saint Sigismond's church was extended at the end of the 17th century. It displays all the characteristics of Baroque art in which the Biblical story is presented in gold and polychrome. After the coming of the French revolutionaries (Savoie was not French yet), the restorations of the 19th century brought neo-classical touches. The stained glass windows are from the 20th century. Amongst other things, the church houses a "Virgin Breast-feeding" from the mid- 15th century.

Center of Aime

St François de Sales Church

Part of Bellentre priory until 1714, Valezan then became a parish in its own right and a church dedicated to Saint François de Sales, it was built between 1727 and 1730 at the top of the village, offering a superb panoramic view over the valley, to Mont Pourri and Bellecôte glaciers. The furnishings all in the same style, reflect the fervour of the local population at the start of the 18th century, as well as its financial strength (don't forget that we are on the prestigious Versant du Soleil).

Top of the village of Valezan

On Wednesday from 3.30pm to 5.30pm (July and August)

St Nicolas Church

The church dates back to 1679 - 1682 and was re-built in 1806 after being burnt down by the Aime Revolutionary Committee in 1794. When you enter the church you will be surprised by the baroque and polychrome decor. Helical columns, gold, colours, statues and paintings tell the story of the church and the mountain communities.

Churchs & Chapels

Notre-Dame des Neiges

The Chapel of Montgésin was built in 1658 in the heart of the small hamlet of Montgésin. At first it was called Our Lady of Grace or Pity, then it was renamed Our Lady of the Snows. We went to the Chapel of Montgésin for pilgrimages, during processions from Longefoy and August 5th to ask for snow and signs of good harvests. The chapel has preserved a very beautiful altarpiece of baroque style recently redoubled. A major restoration campaign is being coordinated by the Association of Friends of the Heritage of Longefoy.

St Jacques Church

This church, dedicated to Saint James the Greater dates from the end of the 17th century and was consecrated on August 28, 1687. Previously another church was built in its place but oriented differently. Construction work was decided at a General Assembly of the entire parish. From the 23rd of July of the same year, the contract was awarded to the italian architect Calligato de Varallo. At the revolution, the bell tower was flushed by the revolutionaries and was rebuilt in 1812.

Ste Agnès Church

The church built in 1751, is dedicated to Sainte-Agnes. Specificity of the pulpit, the canopy represents a flower of sunflower instead of the traditional leaves of acanthus. In the choir, two large paintings, Christ and the Virgin, were offered by a local artist Jacqueline Sujdovic, at the request of the priest Lucien Vivet-Gros. The magnificent entrance gate was also offered by Roger Villien ironworker.

Ste Marguerite Chapel

Located at 1940 meters, this chapel is the highest in the town. Until 1965, the parishioners went there in procession on 21st July. Her main name is Saint-Guérin, but sometimes she is referred to as Notre Dame de la Visitation, Sainte-Marguerite or Notre Dame-des-Neiges.

Bonvillard Chapel

This chapel, dating from 1544, is located in a small hamlet that has disappeared. It is dedicated to Saint-Jacques-le-Majeur, apostle and patron saint of the pilgrims, and Saint-Pantaléon, patron of doctors and midwives.

St Bathélémy Church

The exact date of its construction is not known, but the first document mentioning an "ecclesia de Granieriis" in the parish of "Greniers" in Aime dates back to 1344.

The first building is dated 1538. The choir stalls were built from 1647 to 1653 and the side naves were added in 1670. The main altarpiece was created in the 17th century by Jacques-Antoine Todesco, a Piedmontese artist. In 1732, the seating area was enlarged and the clock tower was raised. It was restored after the upheaval of the Revolution in 1808.

St André Church

The church of Bellentre is one of the oldest in the valley, its exterior aspect, still betrays its Romanesque origins. An inscription of 1772, placed on the chevet, attests that it was enlarged in the XVIIIth century. The main element of the building is a pulpit carved in 1765 by Joseph-Marie Martel

St Laurent Church

Built between 1702 and 1714, this church stands on the site of the former Chapel of Saint Laurent. The old chapel was used as the basis for the apse in the church's chancel. It was first known as the church and parish of Saint Amédée de La Côte. In reality, the first patron of La Côte was never canonised. He was actually Amédée IX the Blessed, who was the Duke of Savoie from 1465 to 1472 and married Yolande, Louis XI of France's sister. He was doubtless chosen as patron because his name, Amédée, was the second name of the ruling Duke, Victor-Amédée, who facilitated the separation from Aime.

Villages, heart in the «valley»

Aime

Aime's town center makes a pleasant place for a stroll. A number of little squares, all with their own charm and history, encourage you to sit for a while. In the Place de la Cachouriaz, in the cool of the water trough more than a century old (built in 1900), the old cheese dairy can still be seen.

A little further is the place Brunet in the heart of the old village, sits a fountain and benches that make it a symbolic place.

Boutiques and stalls are set up in the main street which comes to life thanks to the members of the shopkeepers' association and la Plagne Vallée.

Villages, heart in the «valley»

Villette

The village of Villette is situated at 740 meters high. It is made up of two hamlets Charves at 1300m high and Plan Villard, the mountain hamlet. A mainly residential commune, overlooked by the Château de Sainte-Anne, Villette grew thanks to its marble quarry, called the "Tarentaise rift".

Bellentre is spread over both banks of the Isère river. Apart from the main village, the commune consists of thirteen hamlets : seven on the Versant du Soleil (the sunny side of the valley) : Le Gothard, Le Crey, Le Rocheray, La Grange, Le Villard, Bonconseil and Le Plan des Forches, and six on the left bank of the Isère, also known as Le Revers Le Mazuet, Les Granges, Le Grand Bochet, Montorlin, Montchavin and Les Coches.

Valezan

A little mountain village that has kept its authenticity and the warm welcome and open mindedness of the "old folk". As well as the panoramic view from the Col du Petit Saint-Bernard to the Col de la Madeleine, its architecture is well worth stopping to take a look at : traditional houses adapted to the slope and the wind in such a way as to create multi-functional work areas.

Tessens

Set on the hillside at an altitude of 950m high on the sunny side of the valley. Its two hamlets are Villaroland and le Breuil at 800m high. Most of the village's revenue comes from farming. The houses are in typical Savoyard style, centred around the church and linked together by narrow, paved streets.

Longefoy

Longefoy, with its red-tiled roofs, is a small village set at 1250m high, at the entrance to the winter and summer resort of Plagne Montalbert. The village overlooks the valley below and is itself overlooked by the Chapel of La Superga, a reproduction of the famous monument in Turin, set in lush green surroundings.

Montgirod

Montgirod is an old village at 1100m high, it is a fact that it was burnt by the German army during the Second World War. Also to be seen in Montgirod is the baroque church, an astonishing stone worn by footfalls, evidence of millennia of human occupation, a sundial on the cemetery wall, numerous chapels and oratories. Above the village walks lead you through the forest and Alpine pastures where cheese-makers make Beaufort d'alpage ; a chance to get to know the world of mountain agriculture.
